Section 1 – Cache List Overview

The effective operation of a National Urban Search and Rescue (US&R) Response System (the System) Task Force is predicated upon properly trained personnel coupled with appropriate tools, equipment and support components. The compliment of standard equipment and supplies for a single System Type 1 US&R Task Force is specified in the FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List. The list is periodically reviewed and updated to reflect changes in US&R mission parameters, operational concepts, and technology advances that enhance operational effectiveness. The FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List is a collaborative effort coordinated by the US&R Logistics Functional Group in conjunction with the US&R Branch, Subgroups, and Subject Matter Experts (SMEs).

Task Forces are authorized to purchase and maintain two independent equipment caches as identified in US&R Program Directive 2016-013.

The equipment cache list is the "tool box" from which an entire task force operates to meet mission objectives.

The FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List is comprised of multiple tabs:

- The Overview Tab provides guidance on the use of the Cache List including Operational Scope, Procurement, Storage and Maintenance, and Cache Replacement
- The Type 1 Cache Tab identifies the items that task forces are authorized to purchase and the recommended cache components for a Type 1 deployment
- A dated Changes tab (20__ Changes) identifies the approved changes to the current version of the cache list
- The Task Force Support Tab (TF SPT) identifies items for purchase to support the task force's day to day operations
- The individual discipline tabs (C,H,L,M,P,R,T,W) are for ease of reference and not intended for additional purchases

The FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List is developed utilizing SMEs from all US&R functional disciplines to identify equipment and supplies to provide minimum quality standards. The FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List is compiled and maintained by the System's Logistics Functional Group under the guidance of the Advisory Organization and US&R Branch.

The FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List is reviewed on a continual basis. Equipment and supplies are routinely evaluated for inclusion or removal. Items that are not able to hold up under austere disaster environment conditions are recommended to be replaced or discontinued. New technologies are researched and may replace an obsolete technology or be included as a new technology that supports the US&R mission. As of the time that the FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List was distributed, items have been reviewed for their quality and reliability to sustain task force operations. The items contained in this cache list represent the type, kind, and quantity each System Task Force shall be authorized to acquire and maintain. Any exceptions shall be approved by the US&R Branch.

Section 2 – FEMA Cache Item Numbers

Items on the FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List are assigned a FEMA Cache Item Number. The purpose of the FEMA Cache Item Number number is for item purchasing, tracking, and functional categorization. The FEMA Cache Item Number number is utilized in the following circumstances:

- New ID Number – Assigned after new item approval
- Maintain Existing ID Number - Replacement Items (Direct and/or equivalent), Mfr / Model changes, etc.
- ID Deleted – Used when an item is Retired/Removed from Cache List (not to be use again)

Special Circumstances:

- Grayed Out items refer to notes in the Overview Documentation
- Same Items may appear multiple times with different FEMA Cache Item Number numbers due to being in Kits or multiple Sections

Items that are retired/removed from the FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List are no longer approved for future purchases or maintenance using Cooperative Agreement funding, unless authorized within the notes ection of the overview or authorized by the FEMA US&R Branch. Items that have been retired/removed should be considered for appropriate disposal or reutilization. The FEMA Cache Item Number may not be in sequential order due to this process. System Task Forces should include the FEMA Cache Item Number in their inventory database as a corresponding reference between the Approved Equipment Cache List and their inventory database.

Section 3 – Capability and Operational Scope

The Equipment Cache List is designed to support a Type 1 US&R Task Force with up to 84 personnel (including support positions when required). Each System Task Force is required to be self-sufficient for the first 72 hours when in theater and engaged in operations (except for fuels such as gasoline or diesel) and capable of 24-hour (around the clock) operations for an estimated mission length of up to 14 days. Quantities of supplies on the FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List are not intended to support a Task Force for the entire 14 days. System Task Forces are to prepare their cache with support supplies to cover the first 72 hours, unless otherwise directed due to nature of the incident response, and be prepared to coordinate re-supply as needed through the designated US&R Incident Support Team (IST), the on-scene or local incident command system, or from their home base when directed or when other routes for re-supply have not been established or otherwise not available.

The FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List is intended to cover a wide variety of all-hazard incidents. The System has recommended cache configurations to meet anticipated mission requirements, but Task Forces have the flexibility to select required elements from within the overall cache list to meet mission objectives. Although the items on the list are categorized under functional sections, all items are intended to be shared between all functional sections of a Task Force.

The Task Force Equipment Cache List is organized into eight sections; Communications, Hazmat, Logistics, Medical, Planning, Rescue, Technical, and Water.

Communications Section

The Communications Equipment Section within the cache list is based upon supporting the overall communications requirements of the entire Task Force. Each Task Force member should be issued a portable radio to assure personal accountability and situational awareness. Appropriate Task Force personnel may be issued and responsible for additional communications equipment issued by the Communications Technician.

The Task Force Communications cache is capable of supporting the following:

- Voice and Data communications for all members of a Type 1, Type 2, Type 3, Type 4, modular team, and attached personnel (force protection, liaisons, etc.).
- Buses and rental vehicles should have mobile radios temporarily installed to support convoy and operational communications
- Voice and Data communications between Task Force, IST, and other agencies
- Ongoing sustainment and maintenance of the communications cache
- Wide-area communications to meet the operational requirements of the Task Force
- Voice and data between the Base of Operations (BoO) and two forward operational areas

Section 3 – Cont'd

Voice Communication Performance:

Task Force voice communications are necessary for personnel safety and situational awareness

• Operate on the following frequency bands:

- o UHF range 1 (Primary Federal System)
- o UHF range 2 (Public Safety)
- o VHF (Federal, Marine, Coast Guard, and Public Safety)
- o VHF AM (Aircraft, Air to Ground, A/G)
- o 700-800 Mhz (Federal and public safety)

• Associated effective ranges

- o Portable – 1.5 miles
- o Mobile – 3 miles
- o Repeater – 3-5 miles (directly related to how high the antenna is located)
- o Iridium – World-Wide (Satellite Phone)
- o MSAT – CONUS, Alaska, Hawaii, Caribbean, south to half of Columbia (Note: MSAT units shall include an LMR radio link device to allow the use of the MSAT as a repeater system)
- o VoiP – two phone lines
- o Cellular – CONUS and all territories
- o Cellular Hotspot (MiFi) – CONUS, 50Mbs, 4-8 users
- o Cellular Data Modem (Tactical Internet Kit) – 50Mbs, 1-50 users

Note: All MSAT units shall have the following talkgroups installed as a minimum: USAR1, USAR2, USAR3, USAR4, USMART. This assures that all units can communicate between all teams and IST's. Each Task Force will have their own talkgroup also when they have multiple units. Task Forces are encouraged to include all of the SMART talkgroups in their units. SMART talkgroups are free for Task Forces.

Data Communications Performance:

Data performance is rated by bandwidth of bits per second. Depending on the unit, this is measure by megabits (Mbs or "Megs") and kilabits (Kbs).

With the ever-increasing need for data transfer of vital information, the goal is to provide the fastest thru-put rate possible for Task Forces. The identified users are: forward operating teams, Base of Operations (BOO), and the IST.

- • VSAT KU band @ 20Mbs down, 5Mbs up, 8-10 users (BOO)
- • BGAN @ 492Kbs down, 2-4 users
- • Cellular LTE @ 50Mbs down
- • Local Area Network (LAN) transfer rate shall be minimum of a gigabit

Note: All data speeds are maximum per system. Number of users, type of content, and other factors can reduce the total and individual thru-put.

Equipment Purchase Specifications:

The Communications Sub Group has taken great effort in providing the best direction for purchasing of communications specific equipment. A kit format was developed to assist teams to purchase the needed equipment to meet the intended use and deployment model. Kits allow for consistency for national training and anticipated standard operational capability. For the best interest of the program, when possible, Task Forces should purchase communications equipment in the stated kit configuration.

All equipment purchased that requires subscription services should be operational (turned on) at all times. This is to alleviate the need for activation upon deployment. Bringing devices from sleep mode may take up to a day and a half to acquire service let alone system updates.

Hazmat Section

This section was developed to allow Task Forces the capability to operate safely within a contaminated environment. System Task Forces are capable of performing limited operations in a contaminated environment subject to the type and concentration of contamination. The Task Force's capabilities would include presumptive site characterization; performance of reconnaissance (recon), search and rescue within a contaminated environment; and decontamination of Task Force personnel and a limited number of survivors.

Section 3 – Cont'd

Due to the technology and function of the personal protective, detection, and decontamination equipment in the Hazmat Section, the manufacturer/make and model/part #'s of the items listed are those which System Task Forces are required to purchase. A contaminated environment may include, but is not limited to, incidents involving the intentional or accidental release of any hazardous materials, such as Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear, or Explosive (CBRNE) materials. System Task Forces are expected to have the requisite knowledge, skills, and abilities to develop a risk management plan that provides the highest level of SAR services without putting members at unreasonable risk for a time frame of 12 hours.

Logistics Section

This section is based upon supporting any of the dietary, shelter, personnel support/protection, administrative, transportation or other requirements of the Task Force not listed in other cache list sections. This section includes the components for the Task Force Base of Operations. The quantities denoted should meet the requirements of the Task Force for at least the first 72 hours of self-sufficiency when engaged in operations in theater. A listing of personal support items is included for individual use during a mission assignment, taking weather extremes into account. This includes those items that offer personal protection for task force members. In addition, the list includes uniform standards for a variety of operating environments likely to be encountered by Task Force members. System Task Forces are authorized to purchase and maintain personnel support and protection items for up to 220 Task Force members.

Medical Section

The Medical Equipment Section is based upon providing sophisticated medical treatment for survivors entrapped in collapsed structures and for up to 84 Task Force members (including support personnel), including limited treatment of disaster search canines. The Medical Equipment Section has been developed on the basis of providing support for two Task Force physicians and four Medical Specialists. The quantity of equipment and pharmaceuticals in the cache is based upon research and past experience, and is established by anticipating, as an average, the following injuries during the mission: 10 critical cases, 15 moderate cases, and 25 minor cases.

Pharmaceutical items should be obtained, to the maximum extent possible, by a System Task Force through a local hospital or other medical supplier at the time of activation. It is expected that task force "durable" medical equipment (i.e., defibrillators, monitors, ventilators, etc.) will remain the property of the Task Force and will be retrieved in the event that patients are transferred to the local organization for definitive treatment. The local organization responsible for follow-up patient care must be prepared to provide such equipment, if needed, for patient transfer from the rescue site.

Planning Section

The Plans Equipment Section is based upon supporting the administrative and management functions of the Task Force when deployed on the mission.

Rescue Section

The Rescue Equipment Section is based upon supporting the 26 positions assigned to a System task force Rescue team. Under the management of the two Rescue Team Managers, rescue personnel are organized into four Rescue Squads comprised of one Rescue Squad Officer and five Rescue Specialists. The Rescue Team has two basic work schedules, a 24 hour “blitz” mode in which four squads are working simultaneously or 12 hour shift (two squads) rotations.

Rescue operations may occur in multiple locations simultaneously, often it is during the initial deployment of a US&R Task Force when rescues are most likely, and to support this capability requires duplication of tools kits, and multiple power sources to provide this level of service.

The tools and equipment specified in the Rescue Equipment Section have been selected with considerations of:

- Size and Weight
- Maneuverability
- Interoperability
- All hazards application

While the overarching criteria for tool/equipment selection is based on the core US&R mission (rescuing survivors trapped in collapsed structures), Task Forces are frequently tasked to perform outside this core mission to support a variety of all hazards incidents when requested.

Section 3 – Cont'd

Technical Section

The Technical Equipment Section is based upon supporting the technical specialist positions such as the Structures Specialist conducting building surveys and structural assessments and Technical Search Specialist utilizing specialized electronic audio and visual search equipment. Electronic technical equipment must be capable of battery operation using rechargeable batteries, or have an adequate supply of disposable batteries. All equipment must be capable of field maintenance and/or repair, calibration and adjustment, and be user-friendly and easy to operate.

Task Forces must have the ability to deploy two separate specialized electronic audio equipment (Listening Devices) units simultaneously.

Canine Search equipment listed is designed to be issued per certified canine with the necessary equipment for the canines to operate in a wide range of rescue and recovery operations. This equipment is appropriate for both live find and human remains detection canines. Additionally, the equipment included allows for canine operations at height, and in the water rescue environment. See Note #7 below.

Water Section

The Water Operations Equipment Section is based upon fielding a 14-member "US&R Water Operations" component within a Type 1 US&R Task Force. Tasking for a US&R Water Operations Group may include, but is not limited to the following:

- Mobilize and safely transport System members and essential equipment to areas of operations that require watercraft for access (ex: across waterways or in flooded environments during disasters)
- Search disaster areas that have become flooded
- Conduct rescue operations in collapsed structures inundated by water-related disaster events
- Access and rescue survivors and companion animals trapped by flood waters during water related disaster events
- Recover US&R personnel and other responders who have become separated, stranded, or trapped by rising flood water (ex: conducting Rapid Intervention)
- Conduct waterborne Rapid Needs Assessments (RNAs) when rotorcraft or fixed wing are not available or cannot fly due to unfavorable conditions
- Provide water access for specialized resources to complete critical missions

Section 4 – Modular Response

ARM, Type 4 and MRP caches are modular and taken from the Type 1 FEMA Cache. Task Forces are only authorized to purchase items for the Primary Type 1 Cache and the original "legacy" cache. Task Forces are not authorized to purchase items for separate modular caches.

Section 5 – Standardization and Interoperability

The concept of developing and maintaining a standardized Task Force equipment cache contributes to enhanced readiness and operational effectiveness of Task Forces within the System. Standardized equipment and supplies supports the development of consistent policies and procedures relating to cache management, training curriculums, and task force on-site operations. Standardized equipment and supplies contributes to enhanced interoperability and resource sharing between task forces that may be operating in the same general area or at the same incident site. Items listed on the FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List include the manufacturer, make and model and are considered the "Recommended US&R Standard".

System Task Forces should strive to purchase the manufacturer/model listed whenever possible in order to maintain the highest level of standardization and interoperability among all task forces. Equipment must be rugged and suited for use under adverse environmental and operational conditions. All equipment must meet nationally recognized safety standards such as ANSI, SI, CGA, NEMA, OSHA, NFPA, etc. If/when items on the cache list have been revised or replaced with a new manufacturer/make and/or model/part#, the new manufacturer/make and/or model/part# becomes the current "US&R Standard" for purposes of maintaining standardization and interoperability within the System.

Section 6 – Procurement

The FEMA US&R Branch is responsible for approval of the Equipment Cache List and oversight of associated readiness activities through a Cooperative Agreement with each System task force. The annual US&R Readiness Cooperative Agreement Guidance documents outline the responsibilities of the US&R Branch and the task forces pertaining to the procurement of cache equipment and supplies.

System Task Forces should strive to purchase the identified cache list items per the description, manufacture/make, and model/part #'s whenever possible. At times, the System will direct the purchase of specific equipment including kits with make/model reference. In the case of brand name justification, task forces must purchase the exact items to ensure interoperability (ex. SCBA, Hazmat Meters, Radios).

All purchases must follow the Procurement Standards as identified in 2 CFR Part 200. The non-Federal entity must use its own documented procurement procedures which reflect applicable State and local laws and regulations, provided that the procurements conform to applicable Federal law. States must adhere to 200.317, all other non-Federal entities, including subrecipients of a state, will follow 200.318 (General procurement standards) through 200.326 (Contract provisions).

Sponsoring Agency purchasing policies and established vendor contracts may identify alternate manufacturers or sources other than those identified on the cache list for non-crucial supplies for associated task force management and support functions. System Task Forces are authorized to purchase alternate items meeting or exceeding the "US&R Standard" set forth by the manufacturer/make and model/part# when it is impossible or impractical to procure the items per the manufacturer/make and model/part# on the cache list. Cache list equipment should be purchased with the manufacturer's carry/storage case, necessary support items, and maintenance and operating manuals.

The FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List includes Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price (MSRP) information for each item or group of items. The MSRP listed in the current cache list is provided as a basis for estimating the costs of purchasing or replacing items. The maximum authorized price paid by Sponsoring Agencies for individual cache items is limited to the MSRP determined at the time of purchase based on the manufacturer/make and model/part # of the item identified on the cache list.

In rare cases where a cache list item may not be able to be procured at or below the MSRP identified at the date of purchase, the US&R Branch may authorize procurement of the item at a higher price when the Sponsoring Agency provides written justification for such procurement. The MSRP included on the FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List does not include tax, delivery, shipping, and handling charges that may be incurred in the acquisition process. Such costs are separate from the MSRP and are authorized when necessary to procure the approved item. The MSRP for any single listed cache list item may not include the costs for additional accessory or support items that are required for the full functionality or protection of that item. In such cases, System Task Forces are authorized to identify the costs of any associated accessory or support items and procure these items in addition to the MSRP for the original item listed on the FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List. System Task Forces should not exceed the MSRP for any accessory or support items, and should be prepared to justify any costs that exceed MSRP for readiness or response related purchases.

Section 6 – Procurement – Cont'd

System Task Forces are authorized and encouraged to utilize GSA to procure cache items. The General Services Administration (GSA) has issued purchasing procedures for Disaster Recovery Preparedness which can be used by Task Force Sponsoring Agencies (State and Local Government Agencies) for purchase of products and services listed on the FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List. Purchases can be made using prices listed on all GSA schedule contracts relating to Disaster Recovery. It applies to supplies and services required before a disaster takes place as well as after. The intent is to facilitate the preparedness for and recovery from a major disaster, terrorism, or a nuclear, biological, chemical or radiological incident. More specific information including answers to frequently asked questions can be found at the GSA website.

System Task Forces are strongly encouraged to review this policy guidance and incorporate it into their purchasing procedures. For some items on the cache list there are no comparable items on GSA Schedule contracts; however for many other items there are identical part numbers on GSA schedules at pricing that has been evaluated by GSA and are considered fair and reasonable.

As stated in Section 4, Task Forces are not authroized to purchase items for modular caches.

Section 7 – Packaging and Containers

All equipment and supplies shall be properly packaged in appropriate containers to facilitate shipping requirements and property accountability. Containers should be constructed of durable materials, be watertight and stackable, and be equipped with an adequate number handles to facilitate lifting and moving by hand. Packaging weights and cube volumes must be considered within the overall gross limitations for air and ground transport and should address the “worst-case” scenario of having to move, load, and unload the cache by hand or with simple hand operated material handling equipment such as pallet jacks, two-wheel dollies, or flatbed carts. Hazardous materials must be properly prepared, marked, labeled, and documented to meet requirements for various modes of ground and airlift transport.

Section 8 – Maintenance, Storage and Inventory

System Task Forces Sponsoring Agencies are responsible for the regular inventory, exercise, and preventive maintenance of all approved cache equipment and supplies. System Task Forces are authorized to utilize Cooperative Agreement funding to conduct all required actions to maintain the equipment cache in a state of readiness. This includes conducting inventories, periodic maintenance, and purchasing replacement equipment and/or supplies that have met the manufacture's recommended shelf-life. System task forces are directed under Cooperative Agreement Guidance to manage, maintain, and inventory cache items that are acquired as a result of:

- Sponsoring Agency purchase using Cooperative Agreement funding
- Items purchased and provided to the Task Force by the System or otherwise acquired via another Federal Program
- Items purchased and provided to the System Task Forces as a result of a Federal Activation for response
- Items donated to Task Forces that meet equipment cache list manufacturer/make minimum quality standards, do not exceed the quantity listed on the cache list and are considered property of the Task Force

System Task Forces are authorized to maintain equipment and supplies listed on the current FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List per the quantities listed which are in service for task force deployment and training. System Task Forces are also authorized to maintain associated accessories or support items which are required for the functionality or protection of items listed on the FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List. Items taken permanently out of service for Federal response should not be maintained using Cooperative Agreement funding and should be disposed of utilizing appropriate disposal or reutilization procedures. To the greatest extent possible, System Task Forces should strive to store and maintain their FEMA Approved Equipment Caches in a secure, central location ready for immediate deployment at all times. System Task Forces shall maintain inventory and maintenance records in accordance with System guidance.

Section 9 – Cache Item Replacement

In the GAO audit findings in February 2016 the US&R System does not have a comprehensive equipment recapitalization process, however, System Task Forces should strive to replace items that have exceeded their life cycle or have become obsolete by purchasing replacement items identified on the current FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List.

In the event that an item on the FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List becomes obsolete, or no longer available, the appropriate Functional Group Leader and Logistics Functional Group Leader should be notified so that research can be conducted to determine a suitable replacement item. If a System Task Force needs to replace the item prior to the determination of a suitable replacement, the Task Force can contact the manufacturer of the item to determine if a newer model is available to replace the obsolete item. If there is no comparable item available, System Task Forces can contact other manufacturers to determine if a suitable replacement is available.

Section 9 – Cache Item Replacement – Cont'd

Task Forces shall utilize the process outlined in GM 2016-091, Cache List Change Request Form to request changes to the cache list. Updates occur on a bi-annual basis unless the release of an interim cache list is directed. The Cache List change process includes instructions on how to complete and submit the required information. The request is then routed through the process for review, determination, and action. It is the requestor's responsibility to follow-up with the appropriate functional group leader to determine final status.

Section 10 – Notes

The FEMA Approved Equipment Cache List includes updates to manufacturer and model/part numbers to provide the most current available product(s) and/or technology.
